

This is a continuation on the authority of the Bible. From the previous audio, the audience learned that there are only two final authorities in this world: man and God. No matter what philosophy or religion you believe in, man always is the final authority. For Christians, our final authority is the words of God. It does not matter what kind of scientific proof, historical discovery, or rational argument is used against the scriptures, because the Bible was always proven right in the end. Before, we have studied the fallacy of men, science, and history supporting the Holy Book. Now, this will cover questions such as, "What are the mathematical statistics supporting the Bible?" "What are the examples in the Bible for those mathematical proofs?" "What are the chances in math for just 17 prophecies in the Bible?" "How do you really know the Bible is not written by men?" "What if the writers wrote the Bible after the fulfilled prophetic events occurred?" "Couldn't the authors have plotted for all these scientific, historical, and mathematical evidences to purposely support the Bible?" "Isn't it really just your interpretation of the verses that seemingly show the scientific, historical, and mathematical evidences?"
