

When Christians are supposed to love people, why are they hateful of different religions and lifestyles?